Read before starting

Advice from one of Council's Urban Planners prior to lodging a planning permit application can benefit you by:

- Providing general feedback from a Council Planner, and identification of the key planning considerations
- Potentially reducing requests for changes and further information following lodgement.

Pre-application planning advice can often be given by phone or email and a meeting is not always necessary, particularly if you provide plans and information electronically.

If a meeting is necessary to discuss more complex issues, other relevant Council officers (e.g. Sustainable Design Officer) may be invited to attend.

Whether or not a pre-application discussion takes place, Council planners will make a full assessment of the application proposal after it is lodged and may consider input from the public notice process and referrals to other Council officers such as traffic and heritage. This input may lead to further requirements or changes.

Preparing your pre-application advice request

To ensure that you get the most comprehensive pre-application advice possible:

1. Find out the zone and overlays affecting your property
2. Look at the Port Phillip Planning Scheme including planning policies that may affect your application. Make notes to ask questions about interpretation and application of these policies.
3. If you are proposing a multi-unit development or constructing or extending a dwelling on a lot < 500m<sup>2</sup>, you will require a detailed neighbourhood and site description and a design response to lodge with your application. The neighbourhood and site description is the essential first step of the process and will guide your design.
4. Consider Council's web page on Sustainable Urban Design.
5. Prepare preliminary designs and sketches that show:
  - How your proposal respects the site and the surrounding area
  - How the design considers the site constraints.
6. Consider the owners/occupiers of neighbouring properties before you lodge an application. Where possible, addressing the concerns of neighbours early in the process can minimise delays later as well as the costs of making changes to your plans.
